

LIFETIME MEMBERSHIP

Determination of Life Expectancy and Selecting the correct One-Time Fee for Lifetime Membership

1. The benefits of a Lifetime Membership shall apply only to an individual member, or to each person in a member couple, whom each is named in the original application as recorded at International Headquarters.
2. The age for establishing the one-time fee for International dues shall be determined by the age each individual member is as of December 31 of the year in which the application is made. For example if a person is going to be 65 years old on May 24th, their next birth day, they will be 65 years old on December 31, and therefore 65 is the age they would use in paragraph 3 or 4 below.
3. SINGLE INDIVIDUALS. Once the age from paragraph 2 above is determined, the Single and Joint Life Expectancy Table on pages 3 and 4 of this appendix is consulted to establish the individual's life expectancy. The life expectancy of a single person is determined by referring to the first vertical column (Titled AGE) in the Table and finding the individual's age. Then in the next vertical column to the right (Titled Single) and in the same horizontal row as the individual's age, is that person's life expectancy. For example; if a single person is 65 years old, their life expectancy is 21 years.
4. COUPLES. Once the age of each individual from paragraph 2 above is determined, the Single and Joint Life Expectancy Table on pages 3 and 4 of this appendix is consulted to establish the couple's joint life expectancy. The age of the oldest person is first located in the first vertical column (Titled AGE) then the age of the other person is located in the top horizontal row of the Table. Where these two ages intersect is the joint life expectancy of the couple. For example, if the oldest person is 65 years old (first vertical column Titled AGE) and the other person is 60 years old (top horizontal row). Their joint life expectancy is 29 years.
5. Once life expectancy is determined, then that number is used to determine the one-time fee on page 4 of this appendix. This one-time fee is submitted as the Lifetime International Membership Fee that is paid with the Lifetime Application Form.
